PLANS READY TO USE INITIATIVE TO COMPLETE BRIDGE

Business Men's League Is Prepared for Rapid-Fire Campaign if Necessary.

30,658 SIGNERS NEEDED

Leaders Believe, However, the House of Delegates Will Give In to Sentiment.

Plans for invoking the initiative to complete the free bridge by the Reber approach route, should that course eventually be decided upon, have been worked out in detail by the Free Bridge Campaign Committee of the Business Men's League, in conjunction with representatives of more than 40 business, civic and political organizations throughout the city. Hundreds of canvassers to get signatures to the initiative petitions could be put to work in every section of the city within a week. The unanimity with which the different organizations throughout the city have endorsed the Reber approach and condemned the $4,500,000 Alton & Mississippi grab, together with the widespread public sentiment on the subject, has encouraged the campaign committee in the belief that the initiative petitions could be completed within two weeks after the canvassers were put to work. The committee has ascertained that to call a special election on the Hines bill, which contemplates completion of the bridge at a cost of $2,700,000, 30,658 signatures of qualified voters would be required. Under the initiative and referendum amendment to the city charter adopted in 1912, a mandatory petition must contain signatures equal to 25 per cent of the number of votes cast at the preceding mayoral election. The vote cast for all candidates for Mayor last April was 125,685.

Steps That Would Be Necessary. The campaign committee has consulted City Counselor Baird and has ascertained that the following procedure will be necessary to invoke the initiative:

1. Procuring the required number of signatures.
2. Certification of the sufficiency of the petitions by the Board of Election Commissioners.
3. Submission of the petitions, with a copy of the Hines ordinance, to the Municipal Assembly.
4. The Assembly, within 40 days, must either pass the ordinance without amendment, or call a special election within 90 days submitting the ordinance to a vote of the people.
5. Special election to vote on the Hines bill, if the Assembly should refuse to pass it.
6. A second special election to vote on the $2,700,000 bond issue if a majority of the voters at the first special election voted for the Hines bill.

It is believed by the Campaign Committee that the Municipal Assembly would not refuse to pass the Hines bill if the petitions containing the signatures of 25 per cent of the voters should be presented. By passing the bill, the expense of one special election and much valuable time would be saved. Responsibility for the expense of one special election—amounting to about $60,000—would have to be borne by the House of Delegates if it persisted in its refusal to submit the $2,700,000 bond issue after the mandatory petition had been presented.

Committee to Act if Necessary. The committee, however, has determined that unless the Assembly does act promptly upon the free bridge bill, it will invoke the initiative. Since the initiative and referendum was voted into the charter 18 months ago neither device has been actually employed by the people to enact legislation or refer an ordinance.

The Campaign Committee proposes to enlist the services of young lawyers and other intelligent and careful workers to circulate the initiative petitions. The campaign will be conducted along the lines of a jury census. Care will be taken to see that every signer is a qualified, registered voter.

Members of the Campaign Committee express the hope that it would not be necessary to invoke the initiative to get action on the free bridge ordinance, as they hope that the overwhelming sentiment for the Reber approach will influence the House of Delegates to yield. But to be provided for any emergency, the committee has gone ahead and completed the arrangements, and will be ready on short notice to set its machinery to work.

GORE'S LAWYERS ATTACK EVIDENCE WOMAN OFFERED

Recall Those Who Told of Alleged Indignities in Effort to Impeach Them.

JACOBS IS NOT CALLED

Doctor Admits He Said Case Was a "Dirty Frameup," but This Is Ruled Out.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Feb. 12.—After the plaintiff's case had been rested in the $50,000 damage suit of Mrs. Minnie E. Bond against United States Senator Thomas E. Gore, for indignities which she alleges she suffered at a conference with him, the defense sprung a surprise by arranging to recall a number of Mrs. Bond's witnesses to lay a foundation for an attempt to impeach their testimony. The plaintiff's lawyers caused some speculation by their failure to place upon the stand James R. Jacobs, in whose room in a hotel in Washington Mrs. Bond testified the alleged assault occurred. It was in the brain of Jacobs, the attorneys for the defense are attempting to prove, that the alleged "frameup" against the blind Senator was formed. Jacobs is wealthy and is known as a professional guardian of Indians. He was a candidate for United States Marshal for the Eastern District of Oklahoma and was in Washington at the time of the hotel occurrence to push his candidacy. About 20 days before the alleged assault, Jacobs called upon Gore in his Washington office and upon Gore in his Washington office and was told that another man had been selected as United States Marshal for the Eastern district.

Defense Witness Recalled. The defense opened its case by recalling Dr. J. H. Earp, one of Mrs. Bond's chief witnesses. Dr. Earp is president of the local Democratic club, called the Jacksonians, which is the sworn enemy of Senator Gore. He testified yesterday that Gore attempted to use him as an agent to quiet Mrs. Bond the day following the alleged assault. Dr. Earp admitted to Attorney Pruitt for the defense that he told both D. M. Beatty of Oklahoma City and M. E. Cope, Postmaster of 221 Reno with reference to Mrs. Bond's charges that it was a "dirty frameup." This testimony was overruled by Judge Clark as being a conclusion and not admissible. Attorney C. B. Stuart then read the deposition of Miss Inez C. Emery of Washington, who was at the Winston Hotel at the time of the alleged occurrence. She related a conversation she had with Mrs. Bond in the parlor of the hotel a day or two following the alleged assault.

"Wasn't it awful?" said Mrs. Bond, declared Miss Emery. "I said, 'Yes, it is true.'"

"She asked me what I would do under similar circumstances. I said I would keep the matter quiet if possible."

Mrs. Bond said she intended to give

SNOWSTORM TO CONTINUE TONIGHT

SUBURBAN TROLLEYS FORCED TO ABANDON SCHEDULES

CITY'S TRAFFIC TIED UP; TRAINS LATE

Street Car Tie-Up on Broadway Between Pine and Olive; Typical of Downtown Conditions This Morning

15 INCHES OF SNOW FALLS IN TWO DAYS; DEEP DRIFTS FORM

Weather Bureau Forecasts Fall to Go on Through the Night, With Temperature of About 10 Degrees—City Battles With Drifts in Effort to Clear Crossings and Local and Interurban Car Lines Keep Sweepers and Salt Cars Busy on Tracks.

Transportation Companies Say They'll Get Crowds Home Tonight

ASSURANCE was given at 2 p. m. by operating officials of the United Railways and the steam railroads carrying suburban traffic, that all lines would be open for traffic this evening. Superintendent Cameron of the United Railways said cars on all lines would move on equal space, but behind their regular running schedules. Only an unprecedented increase in the snowfall in the afternoon would tie up traffic, he said.

Missouri-Pacific officials said suburban trains would leave Union Station on schedule time, and that the storm would not materially affect their operation.

Frisco officials said all suburban trains of that system would leave Union Station on schedule time in the afternoon and evening and that assurance had been given that the congestion in the Terminal yards would be remedied, with no delay in suburban service.

The snowfall which began late yesterday reached the 12½-inch mark in the Weather Bureau's official gauge at 2 p. m. today. It was the biggest fall of snow since the memorable series of storms of two years ago, and the streets were filled with drifts several feet deep. Street car traffic was delayed, wagons broke down and motor vehicles for the most part proved useless. Trains entering Union Station, both from the suburbs and from more distant points, were hours late.

The storm was general, the Weather Bureau reported, in the territory north of the Ohio River, extending nearly to the Great Lake region, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana, save in the northern parts, had storms similar to that in St. Louis, and the same condition extended through most of Missouri.

Fourteen inches in Two Days. The snowfall of the 24 hours before this storm was 2½ inches, which makes 14½ inches for two days.

Some of the shorter street car lines in the northwest part of the city suspended operations, while employees of the United Railways Co. gave all their efforts to keeping the main east and west lines open.

Eight electric snow plows, 12 sweepers and 30 salt cars were kept in operation all night, but the snow fell so steadily that the tracks were covered almost as fast as they were cleared.

Almost a Blockade. The greatest difficulty in keeping traffic open was experienced in the southwestern and northwestern parts of the city, where the Bellefontaine and Cherokee lines run through comparatively open country and where the wind had full sway.

Even on the east and west trunk lines traffic was slow and intermittent and on the downtown lines the congestion between 7:30 and 8:30 a. m. amounted almost to a blockade. Normal schedules were abandoned.

On the Olive lines in the extreme western part of the city the cars, while not stopped, were thrown out of their schedules and residents there had long waits, then only to run into blockades as the cars crept downtown.

From Grand avenue east to Broadway cars on these lines were running in bunches and were so crowded together that little progress could be made.

The Broadway, Jefferson and Grand lines were in operation, but the service was slow and uncertain. The Marcus line was completely tied up in the early morning hours and the Taylor and National Bridge lines also were out of commission.

Drifts Delay Car Service in the County; Judge Closes Court

The Greve Cour car line virtually was out of commission in the morning. Two cars made round trips early in the morning. At 8 a. m. the snow had

BOY, 3, FOUND WITH CLOTHES AFIRE BY MOTHER; MAY DIE

When Mrs. Mary Lakich of 1620A South Broadway returned to the family living room from her husband's printing shop, one floor below, where she had waited on a customer, Friday, at 11 a. m., she found her 3-year-old son, George, with his clothes in flames, running about the place screaming in pain. Seizing a blanket from a bed Mrs. Lakich wrapped it around him and smothered the flames. She then ran to a drug store at Broadway and Southard street, where she was directed to a nearby doctor.

He accompanied Mrs. Lakich to her home, where he gave the child, who was unconscious, temporary treatment. He notified the police, who did not wait to summon an ambulance, but rushed a patrol wagon to the Lakich home. The child was removed to the city hospital, where attending physicians found him so badly burned over the body that little hope for recovery was held out.

ZERO WEATHER IN EAST CONTINUES; MANY DIE IN COLD

Boston Records 7 Degrees Below; Record for Winter in Cleveland Broken at 6 Below.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Temperatures of zero and far below continued in the Middle Atlantic and New England States today, but with a prospect of relief being brought late tomorrow. Some of the cities which yesterday registered 30 or more degrees below zero showed a rise in temperature today, but still were below the zero line.

The Texas storm advancing on the east turned into rain today as it approached Tennessee, and even caused thunder showers on the Gulf Coast. Snow and sleet fell in the South Atlantic States as far north as the Carolinas.

Snow Covers Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma: Temperatures Low. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 12.—Snow from four to 12 inches deep covered all Kansas and Western Missouri today. Oklahoma had from 1½ to 7 inches. Temperatures over the three States ranged from two degrees above zero at Dodge City, Kan., to 12 above in Oklahoma City.

Reports to the local office of the United States Weather Bureau from Springfield, Mo., said the Ozark front belt was under 10 inches of snow. So. Dallas, Mo., reported 12 inches throughout. Central Missouri. More than five inches here, badly drifted. Impeded street traffic.

Nine Rescued in Fire, Mercury 22 Below: Man Unhurt in 2-Story Jump. ILLION, N. Y., Feb. 12.—Nine persons were rescued with difficulty today from a fire which destroyed the Hotelling block. One man jumped from a third-story window to the pavement without injury. Firemen worked in relays, with the thermometer at 22 below zero.

Stock Buffers, Few Benefits in Oak Ridge. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 12.—Ten inches of snow, driven by a biting north wind, furnished the Ozarks with the first real blizzard of the winter this morning. The temperature was 18 degrees above zero, and considerable suffering among stock is reported. Fruit is believed to have been benefited.

Incidents of the Storm on Streets and in Cars

Everybody made the best of it and most of the belated crowds were "good humored." After a Page car had stopped for the tenth long wait, somebody shouted to the conductor:

"How far are we from heaven?"

"We're right there now," answered a big chap who was standing in the aisle surrounded by a crowd of girls. Everybody laughed.

Samaritan automobilists helped out the passengers of a Delmar car when the trolley broke at Euclid avenue. The motorists told the passengers to climb aboard and they would take them to the University line. As many as could do so crowded into the machine, many of the passengers riding on the foot boards of the auto.

The passengers in a car on the Olive-University line tried to keep warm by burning newspapers in the stove after all the coal in the car was exhausted. Because of the snowstorm the car was 2 hours and 15 minutes coming in from the West End, and all the passengers were shivering when the downtown district was reached.

Numbed with cold, Police Chief Ransom Payne of East St. Louis reached his office at police headquarters in the morning on a coal wagon. Chief Payne left his home at 1234 St. Louis avenue at 8 a. m. and waited an hour for a street car. He asked "a lift" from a coal driver whose wagon was passing at the time.

At Jefferson and Lafayette avenues a rather stout, heavy, closely muffled, middle-aged man, carrying an umbrella, waded out into the street to hail what he thought was an approaching car. It was an approaching snow plow. When it passed he resembled an animated and very profane snow man.

The Washburn train from Kansas City, due at 1:30 a. m., was halted at Rosedale station by snowdrifts. Passengers and members of the train crew got off and shoveled the snow off the tracks, which permitted the train to proceed.

In instances the snowdrifts over the track in this vicinity were four and five feet deep. Engineers were forced to proceed cautiously.

Prisoners in the county jail at Clayton were put to work shoveling the snow off the sidewalks about the courthouses. The fall was so heavy that the force had to start anew each time it completed its circuit about the courthouses.

Cars Here at South's Face. Until after 9 a. m. cars on the downtown loops were moving through the streets at a snail's pace in long lines which impeded all other traffic in that district, and seriously interfered with the operation of downtown car lines, especially the Broadway and the Fourth street lines over parts of which the Olive street loop extends. There was similar congestion on the loop of the Page, Park and Compton lines at Third street and Washington avenue.

The storm had a most serious effect on automobile traffic in all parts of the city. In the downtown district many motor trucks, including those owned by the St. Louis Transfer Co., were stalled.

drifted so deep in places that one car, running toward Greve Cour Lake from Delmar Garden, managed to get to Crow's Nest, the half-way point, and teeman from the First Ward, has announced that he favors the completion of the bridge, though he refuses to express a preference between the proposed approaches.

SAVES ELDERLY PEOPLE FROM KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES--ENDS ALL DISORDERS

Sleep-Disturbing Bladder, Backache, Stiff Joints, Rheumatic Pains Disappear After a Few Doses Are Taken.

While people along in years are naturally more subject to weak kidneys, they can avoid the tortures of backache, rheumatism, and disagreeable bladder disorders, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly relieves the most severe and obstinate cases. Croxone cures these conditions because it removes the cause. It is the most wonderful remedy ever devised for ridding the system of uric acid. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. Croxone makes the kidneys filter the blood and sift out all the poisonous acids and waste matter that cause these troubles. It works right in and cleans out the stepped-up, inactive kidneys like a sponge, dissolves, and drives out every particle of uric acid.

MAYOR PUNISHES BANK THAT DOESN'T AID HIM

Withdraws Deposit When Contribution for City Development Is Withdrawn.

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—After Allen Forbes, president of the State Street Trust Co. had written to Mayor Curley declaring that the use of his name as a subscriber to a city development fund was "absolutely unauthorized," the Mayor announced today that deposits of the city in that institution would be withdrawn. In his letter, Forbes said that he was at the meeting called by the Mayor, for the purpose of starting the fund, but that he made no mention of any intention to contribute. On the list of subscribers given out by Mayor Curley, the sum of $100 was placed opposite Forbes' name. Curley said he had made it plain in connection with his campaign to attract new industries to Boston, that city deposits would be withdrawn from any bank whose officials refused to co-operate with him. The Transcript, in an editorial yesterday, repudiated the placing of his name on the Mayor's list as a subscriber for $100. James W. Dunphy, publisher of the Advertiser and Record, said he had not subscribed $100 for his paper, as stated. The Mayor announced that these contributions had been withdrawn.

EUGENE YSAE SHOUTS 'BRAVO' TO ZACH'S ORCHESTRA

At Rehearsal Violinist Declares Symphony Musicians Among Best in America.

Eugene Ysaye, called by his fellow artists the premier of all living violinists, shouted "Bravo!" in stentorian tones Friday morning after a rehearsal with the Symphony Orchestra of his concertos on the afternoon's program, and then praised the organization in German, French and English as ranking with the best orchestras in the United States. "Very fine!" he said in German. "Marvelous!" he exclaimed in French, concerning the orchestra's feat in playing Bruch's First Concerto for the violin. Opus 38, without previous rehearsal. The St. Louis orchestra, he supplemented in English, "is with the best in America. The Boston Symphony Orchestra? Yes, it is better. But it is old—35 or 30 years old."

Ysaye encountered the orchestra in a crippled condition, owing to the weather. The bass violins and the tympani had not arrived at noon, although express wagons had been sent after them. One contrabass happened to be at the Odeon, and another was borrowed from a lodge hall in the building. The string bass parts were given to two bassoons, a bass clarinet and a violoncello.

Ysaye's first concerto, Mozart's Third, Opus 516, went swimmingly, with the violinist cautioning the players now and then with a whispered "Pianissimo!" But in the rehearsal of the Bruch selection he showed some of the sensitiveness which causes orchestral conductors to call him the "most finicky of soloists." Practically all soloists rehearsed their numbers before the public performance except Fritz Kreisler, who disdains rehearsal. Ysaye has been known to snatch the baton from the director and take command of the orchestra himself.

He played the first movement of the second concerto standing and facing the orchestra. Once, during a rest of the solo part, he beat the time vigorously with his long-locked head. Then, contentedly, he sat down with his back to the orchestra, and turned only once to subdue the second violins with a gesture and to encourage the cellos with a flourish of the hand.

At the beginning of the slow movement, he sprang up and halted the orchestra. It seemed that the violinist had not pleased him, and he showed them how the passage should be played with his hand. He then stepped to the conductor's dais and made several suggestions. At the end of the rehearsal, the members of the orchestra applauded the veteran soloist with cheers and with rattling of bows upon their instruments.

HARRY TURNER WRITES TO THE POST-DISPATCH

Harry S. Turner Jr., whose account of his trial marriage and subsequent actual marriage was given to a Post-Dispatch reporter and published in the Post-Dispatch Thursday, has written to the editor of the Post-Dispatch the following letter, which was received Friday:

"5213 E. 12th avenue,
"St. Louis, Mo., 2-13-14.
"Editor of the Post-Dispatch, city. Dear Sir:—Referring to alleged interview with me in this afternoon's paper, beg to say your representative called (a young lady, I was informed) but I declined to see her.
"I have authorized no interview with your paper and am quite at a loss to understand why you attack my wife. It goes without saying that when you hit her once, you hit me twice. Are children to be the next objects of attack?
"I will appreciate anything you print about me, so long as it is not pleasant. If you ever dare to print anything favorable, however, I shall arm myself to the teeth and invade the editorial sanctum. Very truly yours,
"HARRY TURNER."

Turner is correct in stating that he declined to see the woman reporter who called upon him. But a few minutes later he received a reporter in his apartment at The Lodge, 5213 E. 12th avenue, and in the course of a talk of from 15 to 20 minutes gave, for publication, the story of his marriage which was printed the same day.

Later in the day after Turner had read the article he saw the same reporter a second time and expressed approval of what had been printed.

EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACHE OR BACK HURTS

Says Bladder Irritation or Rheumatism means your Kidneys aren't straining uric acid. Begin taking Salts.

Meat forms uric acid which ex-cites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick head-aches, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To neutralize these irritating acids

THREE STATES IN LEGAL TANGLE OVER A HORSE TRADER

A queer tri-state legal tangle developed Friday when Charles Pierson Culpepper of East St. Louis was arraigned in Judge Hennings' court, in St. Louis, charged with being a fugitive from justice in California.

Culpepper, who is a horse trader, was visited Jan. 7 at his home, 611 Pennsylvania avenue, East St. Louis, by City Detectives Campbell and Chrimer of St. Louis, who told him a charge against him was pending in St. Louis, and persuaded him to cross the bridge with them. He says he understood them to say the charge was embezzlement, but they deny having told him this.

When he got to St. Louis, Culpepper had made complaint about some defect in a horse bought from Culpepper. When the man was summoned to appear at police headquarters and proper charge, he said he had decided to drop the matter.

But in the meantime the detectives found that a request for Culpepper's arrest had been made by the authorities in Oakland, Cal., where Culpepper formerly lived, and where he was charged with having swindled a man in a horse deal. So Culpepper was charged with being a fugitive from justice, and was required to give a $1000 common law bond.

An officer was sent from Oakland to get Culpepper, and he stopped on his way and asked Gov. Major for a requisition. Culpepper presented his case to a lawyer, charging that he had been virtually kidnapped and taken to St. Louis, and the Governor refused to grant a requisition.

Then the Oakland officer went to Springfield, Ill., and asked Gov. Dunne for a requisition. Dunne replied that Culpepper was not under arrest in Illinois, but in Missouri.

Case Dismissed, Is Re-arrested.

When Culpepper appeared before Judge Hennings, Circuit Attorney Harvey announced that the case would be dismissed. As the horse trader left the courtroom, he was rearrested by the St. Louis detectives and was taken to headquarters. The East St. Louis police were then notified that he was held here, and that the California officer was here to get him, and the next move was left to them.

Culpepper said he had a partner in Oakland who made the trade complained of, and that he, before leaving Oakland, paid back to the loser his share of the profit, and gave bond to answer any charge he might make.

Cuban President's Speech Received.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A special message from President Menocal of Cuba to be read at the memorial service to be held at the Arlington National Cemetery Monday in honor of those who perished when the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor, was received today by the Cuban legation.

UGH! NOT CALOMEL, OIL OR SALTS, DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS" IS BEST.

A harmless cure for sick headache, biliousness, sour stomach, constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, salivaceous—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all such misery comes from a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful tonight means all constipation poison, waste matter, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children.

because this delicious fruit laxative cannot cause injury. Even the most delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser, regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your only difficulty may be in getting the genuine, so ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." This city has many counterfeits. "Fig syrups," so watch out.—ADV.

Choice of the House

$9.75 Buys a Suit or Overcoat that was formerly priced $25, $27.50 and $28—these are actually worth that and worth that much or more to Y.O.U.—nevertheless in this sensational whirlwind finish of our big clearance they're priced $9.75.

Feel the goods, note the general making; two full seasons' wear guaranteed; two big windows full of them.

NEIGHBORHOOD ASSOCIATION SEEKS FUNDS FOR WORK

1000 New Members Asked to Pay $3 Each to Help Americanize Immigrants.

The Neighborhood Association, which has headquarters at 319 North, Nineteenth street, wants 1000 new members at $3 each to carry on, through the coming year, its work in Americanizing and improving the social conditions of the people living in the section bounded by Fourteenth street and Jefferson avenue and East and West streets.

To this end the Managing Committee of the Board of Directors has compiled a report, showing its many avenues of effort and results obtained in the last year.

The purpose and work of the association, as explained by Miss Mary Bulkley, one of the vice-presidents, is to spread among the people of the neighborhood, which is largely composed of foreigners, a knowledge of the advantages the city has to offer. In short, Miss Bulkley says, the association wants to Americanize these people.

Workers Make 3000 Visits. The association is not a charitable organization, but is the agent in its territory for all recognized public and private agencies. Its workers made 3000 neighborhood visits last year. It co-operated with the police in improving conditions, with the Board of Health in better health conditions and with the Juvenile Court in dealing with the problems of the children.

The association's home is across the street from the Franklin school, and it has sought, with partial success, to obtain the use of the school to carry out its work. The association has sought to obtain the use of the school rooms for club meetings, of the gymnasium for its gymnasium clubs, basket ball teams and the like and of the play room for its dancing club.

The Board of Education has extended the use of the school rooms for these purposes, charging the association the cost of the light, heat and janitor service. The Board has held that, as the school funds are limited, it must confine itself more to the fundamental "Three R's." The association feels that the Board does not recognize the importance of the fourth "R"—recreation. Because of the association's limited funds, despite the nominal charge for the use of the school building, it has been hampered in its work.

In its report of the work which has been carried on, the managing committee of the association enumerates the following:

Advised systematically the advantages of the vacation and night schools. This instruction is furnished by the Board of Education to a minimum class of 20. The association has recruited these classes. The vacation school registration increased in 1913 from 98 to 199; the night school from 757 to 1287.

Conducted in the play room of the school neighborhood dances, with an attendance of 200 per week. The association furnished a piano and a dancing teacher.

Organized gymnasium classes, seven basket ball teams, and provided health lectures.

Established a vacation branch of the Public Library, with a paid librarian.

Organized eight adult clubs, 10 boys' clubs and 12 girls' clubs.

Established and proved the usefulness of a five-cent lunch for school children. About 30 boys and girls daily are given a warm, wholesome lunch for 5 cents.

Maintained at 1844 O'Fallon street a day nursery with an average attendance of 15, cared for at an average cost of 25 cents per child.

Conducted the largest milk station in the city and the largest baby feeding clinic in the city outside of the Children's Hospital. The clinic has a nurse in attendance and is in charge of a physician from the Children's Hospital.

Found jobs for 106 of 121 applicants. Conducted a penny savings bank, with $150 on deposit and 300 depositors.

Organized a Juvenile Protective Association, with 115 children registered. When a child attains the age of 14 and applies for its "working papers" it is registered. Some persons then are detected to look after the child and aid it in advancing in its employment.

Also Educated Women.

Next to the children the association directs its work in behalf of the women. Experience has shown that the women of the neighborhood, unlike their husbands and children, are unable to advance or progress in their new country, because they must remain at home. Many instances are shown where husbands, who are quick to adapt the customs and also the language of their new land, resent the backwardness their wives display. The Neighborhood Association educates these women in the things their husbands and children naturally assimilate.

Wednesday is the women's day. Sometimes there is sewing, sometimes it is a lecture; again it will be a trip to a theater. Nearly all the theaters of St. Louis have been hosts to the Neighborhood women.

The instruction of the women is carried on by the following:

"WHY SHOULD I WORRY?" when Lettie Brock, 26 years, 208 N. 9th, will give the credit for the diamond for Mrs. Lettie Brock.

FAILURE OF ROGER TO SUCCEED EVERS IS PUZZLING FANS

Bresnahan Was Hired With Understanding That He Would Get Johnny's Job.

MURPHY TOLD HIM THIS
Yet at First Chance High Salaried Bench Warmer Is Passed by for O'Day.

By W. J. O'Connor.

If a telegram would register a brainstorm, one attached to the cerebrum of Roger Bresnahan at the present time would require a strong needle to resist the shock. The Duke of Tralee is storming, and that rightfully.

Roger probably was the most surprised man in the U. S. A. when the announcement was made by Charles Murphy that Hank O'Day would succeed Johnny Evers. Bresnahan had a good reason for feeling perturbed, inasmuch as Murphy gave him (Roger) Evers' job last fall.

Indeed, Murphy not only informed Bresnahan that he was to succeed Evers, but he went further and told the same facts to Messrs. Britton and Huggins, who conspired to depose Roger.

The story goes that immediately after the close of last season Murphy called Bresnahan into his wigwam and asked him to accept the management of the Cubs. Murphy explained that he had had enough of Evers, and wanted a change. Bresnahan neither accepted nor refused, but went to his Toledo home to await developments. The first indication he received that Murphy really intended to depose Evers was when the announcement came out that Hank O'Day had been made manager. Now, Bresnahan, at a salary of $6000 a year, will remain on the Chicago team as executive baggage.

Murphy, to Roger.

The details of how Murphy offered Bresnahan the job of manager are interesting. Roger was called into Murphy's office.

"I want you to manage my ball club next year," Murphy began without preliminaries. "I've had enough of Evers. He made the mistake of trying to manage me and not the club. Now I'm looking for a manager for the Cubs because I can take care of myself."

That closed the incident, according to one of Bresnahan's close personal friends who has been "let in" on the deal. Roger went to Toledo to hibernate and was smothering peacefully when he learned that Hank O'Day had acquired the managerial reins.

Local fans are unable to explain Murphy's next move. When Murphy paid Bresnahan $10,000 a year, he was first here—a bonus of $10,000 and a salary of $9000 per season for signing a three-year contract. It was the consensus of opinion that Bresnahan would succeed Evers at any time that the Trojans fell down. That Murphy liked Bresnahan was evident when the owner overruled his manager early last season, after Evers had benched Roger and put Tom Needham behind the bat. That anyone should select Needham over Bresnahan indicated the existence of a deal. Murphy, by long distance phone from Chicago to Philadelphia, commanded Evers to supply Needham with Bresnahan, and the manager left. Thereafter relations between Bresnahan and Evers were strained, although Roger remained entirely in the background.

Evers' Men Didn't Like Him.

Evers was unpopular with his men, and his fate was sealed from midseason. To ward the close of the campaign he was in speaking terms with very few of his players. Bresnahan, on the other hand, was popular with the men and his accession to the throne was looked for by all the sharps.

Bresnahan has other reasons for feeling scornful on this Friday the 13th. The fact that the National League, without selection, has taken a hand in the Evers-Murphy controversy makes Roger realize that he has been the better of the deal at the hands of the N. L. managers when he was named. Bresnahan had more than a player's contract, but he was paid beautifully out of his own pocket and the League made no great fight to see that his contract was respected. But when the Federal League didn't exist at that time.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Looks Like Second Division.

HOPE, as usual at this season of the year, will endeavor to pull its annual "come back" stunt today, when the advance guard of the Browns departs for St. Petersburg, Fla., to begin spring training.

The fact that the team finished last, behind even the despised Yankees (supposed to have had a clinch on the cellar, in 1913) in no wise keeps down the stuff that springs eternal nor warps the enthusiasm of Manager Branch Rickey and "First Division" Hedges.

Assisting the Browns management and endorsing its optimistic views at St. Petersburg will be a delegation from the local lodge of the United Order of Optimists, the baseball writers. Escaping from the cruel winter here into the vernal softness of a Florida encampment may help these brighten a tail-end prospect into a first-class asset, especially if the club happens to be paying the correspondent's freight.

The Brutal Truth.

NEVERTHELESS, fronting cold facts and squeezing out the excess optimism, there appears nothing in the preliminary situation to justify the belief that the Browns will annoy Connie Mack greatly in the chase for the American League pennant.

Here are the arguments against any strong hopes for the future of the team, THIS YEAR:

Lack of any considerable addition of hitting ability to the team.

The necessity of developing a first-class catcher, three men in the infield and at least one heavy-hitting fast outfielder.

Experimental management.

General lack of pennant class in the materials which compose the veteran skeleton of the club.

The fact that all other clubs have strengthened, with the exception of the Yankees and Naps who were raided by the Feds.

The necessity of sitting the muscles of a squad of 45 men in a short time.

Couldn't All Come True.

IF everything happened for the best, the Browns might have a look-in.

In justice to the owners it must be said that an earnest effort was made last fall to round up talent, as is shown by the heavy draft last fall and the number of new men of fair promise rounded up—a larger number than obtained by any other club in the league.

Pipe These FFS.

IF Rickey makes good, IF four or five big league stars can be picked out of the big squad of new-comers, IF the pitchers beat out all the nice things said about them, IF Second-Sacker Pratt makes a first base star, IF Trille Walker proves a hitter in the outfield and IF the flighty young gentlemen who go to make up a baseball outfit can surround some of the manager's pet theories, all may be well. Perhaps the club could then climb over the Yankees and (it's possible, but) top even the Tigers.

But further it's impossible to picture their rise. Too much must be too quickly accomplished for the team to hope to compete with such strongly grounded clubs as the Athletics, Red Sox, Naps and Nationals.

An Interesting Experiment.

HOWEVER, the work of young Manager Rickey will be followed with keen interest. RICKEY PROMISES TO GET AWAY FROM CUT-AND-DRIED IDEAS REGARDING THE HANDLING OF CLUBS, instead of letting the player pick out his own way of doing things. Rickey intends to select that way for him, and to see that he practices thoroughly.

Scientific minding, running and batting will be taught in Rickey's morning baseball class by word of mouth and, later, by practical trials on scientific training grounds, built for the occasion.

It will be the college method, and will put to the test.

Applying the same to 45 men in four weeks is SOME TASK and no man, much less an untired one in managerial toils, should be harshly criticized if

BROWNS RECRUITS GO SOUTH TONIGHT; VETS TO GO LATER

Many Players Snow-Bound on Way Here, Departure May Be Delayed.

BROWNS GET J. LAVAN; WILL REPORT JUNE 15

JOHNNY LAVAN, the eminent Michigan surgeon, who was recruited from the Ann Arbor campus, last season, by Branch Rickey, then a Brown scout, only to be released by Manager Stovall to Connie Mack, will return to the Browns fold again this season. It has been announced. Lavan will go to harness after June 15 when he will be graduated from the Michigan medical school.

Lavan was only "loaned" to "Connie" Mack, it now develops. Connie was in a bad way last fall, after Jack Barry was injured, and with only Orr to fill the gap, he tried to play the game safe by purchasing Lavan. Rickey so arranged the deal, though, that Lavan reverted to the Browns, a transaction that pleases many local fans.

Branch Rickey's decision to inaugurate his first spring training trip on Friday, the 13th, in defiance of all superstition, suffered a mild jolt when doubt was expressed about the possibility of running trains out of St. Louis in the severe blizzard which gripped this city today.

The vanguard of Browns is billed to depart Friday evening at 11:30 for St. Petersburg, but whether the train plow would open up the way was and is a question.

Rickey will have a squad of 34 men to camp Monday morning at St. Petersburg, his entire party including newspapermen and the women folks totaling 42. Included in his list of players are the trainers—Doc Lawlor and Charley Barrett, who will assist the manager. Rickey's squad is proportioned as follows:

Catchers—Agnew, McAllister, Enns, Crossin, Jenkins, Clemens and Rogers.

Pitchers—Baumgardner, Mitchell, Taylor, Ashley, Witte, James, Weisman, Manning, Hamilton and Hoch.

Infielders—Covington, Hollender, Miller, Snedecor, Bidd, Leary and Hemminger.

Outfielders—Rumler, Williams, Ernest Walker and Clarence Walker.

The second squad, composed chiefly of veterans, will leave St. Louis a week hence under the command of Owner Hedges. With all hands are on deck, Rickey will have a squad of 47 players besides his assistants—Crigier, Barrett and Lawler.

Veterans Depart Later.

There was no heat in the garden. Joe Humphrey announced that in the future there will be no more announcements. (Loud cheering by the crowd, who lit a cigar to keep warm.)

Another "even" was between Charlie Weisner and Johnny Howard. Weisner, who looks a little like Kid Carter of the olden days, and who has a magnificent physique and very long reach, started off like a champion. He hammered around the ring for one round.

In the second Howard began shooting over short rights, getting Weisner wobbly on his plin.

Weisner took up the white hope's (170) pounds each) burden in the third and fourth rounds from that time on. He was rocked occasionally and was very tired and fatigued in execution, but finally convinced Howard that it was safer to block or hold than to trade blows. Weisner won. He'll be heard from later, when he knows more.

Bob Wallace, the Dapper Scot, reported Thursday afternoon, coming from his home in Millvale, Pa. Bob, as usual, is fit as the proverbial fiddle and will be ready to do his bit in the second round of the Wallace-Murphy fight, which will be held on Friday night.

The English bantam made the strongest finish and earned an even break. Possibly both boys were influenced by the apathy of the crowd, which got over several times and looked beneath its chair

Crigier, Ill, Will Not Join Browns, Players Missing

Veteran Catcher Sick With the Grippe, but May Report Later.

Lou Crigier will not accompany the Browns to St. Petersburg Friday evening because of a severe attack of the grippe, it was announced Friday. In a letter from Crigier's wife, Manager Rickey was informed Friday that the veteran receiver was in no shape to make the trip. Hope was expressed that he would report in five or ten days.

Rickey announced at noon Friday that he would be able to leave on schedule time, 11:30 Friday night. Only one of his players had not been accounted for.

R. L. Hedges was scheduled to reach here Friday morning, but his train was snowbound, and no report had been received from him.

Fultz Seems Pretty Well Organized

Players' Union to Suspend Members Who Go to Feds War on Outlaws Opens

Members of the Fraternity Are Indignant at President Who Lines Up With National Commission Against Organization That Helped Them.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. NEWS that Dave Fultz, president of the Baseball Fraternity, had thrown down the Federal League and lined up with organized baseball, caused an explosion of wrath among some of the baseball players who are wintering in this vicinity. The indignation promises to be widespread, when the members of the organization throughout the country realize the nature of Fultz's agreement.

According to information given out here last night, Fultz agreed that the Players' Fraternity would drop any member who was under suspension by organized baseball clubs for failure to report by April 14. As the National Commission yesterday agreed that all players going to the Feds would be under suspension for five years, in case of breach of contract, and three years in case of violation of the reserve clause, the players union is definitely committed to a policy opposed to the third league.

In view of the fact that it was through the Federal League that the 17 demands of the fraternity were granted at Cincinnati, that the major league clubs were forced to increase their salary lists an average of $15,000 per club, that many more positions of big league emoluments were thrown open by the advent of the Federal League, and that the field for baseball players was very generally enlarged, players interviewed here are white hot over what they esteem treachery to their interests.

None will permit his name to be used, for palpable reasons. But the prevailing sentiment is something like this:

Fultz Move Not Popular.

"Fultz sold us out. We had no voice in this arrangement. In fact, we had every reason to expect that Fultz was strong for the Federal League, as on record to that effect in an interview some weeks ago. I think a vote of the players would be FOR, instead of against the players. And I can't understand what right Fultz has to state the position of the Fraternity without first getting the views of its members. Fultz has ruined himself and hurt the fraternity, instead of strengthening it."

A member of the National Commission explained that Fultz had lined up with organized baseball believing that the Federal League was not permanent, and because of the fact that the com-

Federals May Announce Entry Into Brooklyn in Statement, Late Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. CHARLES H. WHELAN, president of the Federal League, announced this forenoon that an important statement affecting the local baseball situation would be made late today.

It is thought that this statement has reference to the placing of a Federal League club in Greater New York.

It is understood the Federal League will have the co-operation of Robert H. Ward, president of a large New York holding company, and that John Montgomery Ward, former manager of the New York Nationals, is considering a management of the new club.

The leaders of the club are understood to have obtained an option on the former grounds of the Brooklyn team at Third street and Fourth avenue.

mission had granted so many concessions to players at the Cincinnati conference.

One of the demands, which was left unsettled at the Cincinnati meeting, was granted today by the National Commission. According to it if a major league club decides to turn back a drafted player of low classification, all intermediate league clubs will first get a chance at him. This is supposed to give the player a chance to better himself, instead of being buried.

Fultz, when asked what authority he had for taking on himself the right to make a treaty with organized baseball, said today:

"The by-laws of the fraternity empower me to negotiate for the organization and I am strictly within my powers. I acted, I am sure, for the best interest of the organization and my action will be justified, later."

The disclaimer rule, by which suspensions will be imposed on men who go to the Feds, will, of course, apply to all those lined up with the outlaws now, unless they change heart and report before the day of the indictment.

Evers Still in Doubt.

Johnny Evers, the deposed manager of the Chicago Nationals, is expected to decide in the course of the day whether he will join the Boston Nationals or with the new organization.

There was a report late last night that Joe Tinker, his one-time side partner in the Chicago club, had succeeded in signing Evers for the Federal League for three years at $15,000 a year, but this was denied by President James Gilmore of the Federal League.

Evers has sent for his lawyer, who lives up-State, and his contracts from his home in Troy. After a conference today with his lawyer to get an opinion whether or not he is a free agent, Evers will make known whether he will play the coming season.

The Brooklyn club, probably despairing of wanting Tinker away from the Federal League, has closed an option with the Cincinnati club for Dick Egan. The price was $5000. Egan will probably fill the gap at shortstop for the Brooklyn.

As the most interesting meeting that baseball has had for a number of years broke up, Charley Murphy walked out of the Waldorf feeling decidedly uncomfortable. He knows that the managers of both the National and American Leagues are gunning for him and will put him at the first opportunity.

"It is such fellows as Murphy that cause trouble in baseball," said Ban Johnson, "and even if the National League does stand for it the American League, an innocent bystander, should not have to suffer."

The most important thing done by the National Commission was the ruling that any ball player who does not report to his club by April will have to end his connection with organized baseball and in the future will not be allowed to play in either the American or National League.

This is a direct wallon at those who have been holding out on their contracts and taking advantage of the time to flirt with the Federal League. It also means that those who have signed with the Federal League will have to be outlaws for life, even if the new League should blow up in mid-season.

12-Year-Old Swimmer Wins 50-Yard Event From Heath at M. A. C.

Ollie Horn, a young fish who hasn't yet passed the thirteenth milestone, Thursday night defeated Chauncey Heath in the 50-yard swim at the M. A. C. regular bi-monthly meet. Horn had an allowance of 5 seconds, but covered the distance in 20 seconds.

Heath, trailing with Swimmer, Ollie Horn, won the 100-yard swim in three events, managed to score the greatest number of points and retain his lead in the struggle for the point cup. He now has a total of 61, against Kretzer's 45. Glasgow won the 150-yard back stroke, Freund the plunge for distance and Leubke the 25-yard swim Thursday evening.

The ship of state
Here in Pennsylvania-4-4.

I've lots of nerve
And I go to serve
Wherever my duty calls;
But I'll be ram-jammed
And eternally damned
If I tackle that Chubby Chawles!

Didn't I tell you we'd get it sooner or later?
Hope you catch the drift of that remark.
Speaking about color schemes: To repay the organized forces for painting the fences green, the ball players' fraternity will endeavor to give the Federal a black eye.

"I DON'T CARE"
Johnny Evers has received an offer from Eva Tangway to join her company in Chicago and tell his troubles to the audience—New item.

Webb Murphy handed me the coin, I don't care!
Because I dunned with Callahan, I should worry!
The League will pay my salary, They certainly are good to me.
I wonder why! Tee hee, tee hee! Isch coo biddle!

It's the training the Browns are looking for, they might start in and shovel a path from here to St. Petersburg, Fla.

Word comes from Rome that Charley Conkley is recovering from his recent illness. Too bad the "Old Roman" should be stricken upon his first visit to the "home" town after so many years.

Charles W. Murphy is the guy who put the "dis" in organized baseball.

Kieckhefer Wins From Benson; Makes High Run of 8 and Averages .90

August Kieckhefer, the brilliant young Milwaukee catcher, who is pacing the field in the Interstate Three-Cushion Billiard League, added another scalp to his string Thursday evening, when he defeated Frank Benson for the second time this season. Kieckhefer played a bang-up game, making a high run of 8 and an average of .90.

TORONTO OFFERS A $500 SIDE BET FOR MATCH HERE

Canadian Soccer Team, Beaten During Holidays, Is After a Return Game.

A challenge from the Toronto Professionals, a soccer team that was beaten during the holiday games here by the Innists, carrying with it a side bet of $500 for a return game with the Irish Clan of Willie Foley, will be presented to the officers of the Robison Field League at a meeting Friday evening. If the league can see its way clear to bring the Canadians on for another series, the side bet will be covered and a series of at least two games booked with the Canucks.

The action has been considered informally by the Robison Field officials since the recent meeting wherein the four managers voted against a proposition to play the St. Leo's post-season series for the championship of the city. By a unanimous vote it was decided that no team from the Robison Field league should play any team from Athletic Park.

Pass Up the U. S. A. F. A.
As a result of this decision it was, incidentally, tentatively agreed that the Robison Field should not affiliate itself with the Missouri division of the U. S. A. F. A., a proposition that Tommy Cahill boosted during his stay here two weeks ago. Positive action on the rejection of the invitation to join the U. S. A. F. A. has not been taken, but a mutual agreement has been reached by the Robison Field officers to stay away from the organized fold. That, in itself, precludes the possibility of a post-season series for the city title.

Present indications are that the soccer situation in the East soon will be equally as turbulent as it is locally. At a meeting held in Newark, N. J., last Saturday night, the American Football Association, which is affiliated with the U. S. A. F. A. and directly controls most of the strong leagues in the East, refused to recognize the suspension of the Fall River Rovers, who were banned by the U. S. A. F. A. for playing the Robison Field clubs during the holidays.

In doing this, the A. F. A. struck a body blow at the governing organization, the U. S. A. F. A.

More War Talk Heard.
Rumors of an open war, marked by the secession of the A. F. A., were heard and the tip was sent west for the Robison Field league to stay away from the U. S. A. F. A. This move was beautifully done.

If the A. F. A. takes up the Fall River Rovers' fight and secedes from the U. S. A. F. A., a new body will be formed, with the Robison Field clubs holding membership. Developments along these lines are expected next week.

The Robison Field League's lease on its present playing field will expire March 15. When Walter Britton proposes to put his diamond in the spring series.

Where the League will finish its schedule is a question which will be decided at tonight's meeting. Two desirable locations are being considered. It is said the schedule will be played out at all costs.

PAGEANT TO BRING BIGGEST CROWDS IN TEN YEARS HERE

Business Men Believe There Will Be More Visitors Than at Any Time Since Fair.

The Pageant and Masque of St. Louis, to be held in Forest Park at the end of May, will bring more visitors to St. Louis than have been here at any one time since the World's Fair, 10 years ago, in the opinion of business men who are taking part in the arrangements.

Charles A. Fitz, chairman of the Finance Committee, in a letter written Thursday to E. A. Faust, said that while it had not been the primary object of the pageant to bring visitors to St. Louis, he believed the number coming here would be so great that the business directly resulting would more than repay all the money expended.

Conspicuous outside notices of the pageant began last Sunday, with a vast article in the New York Times, telling of the plans to make the St. Louis Pageant the greatest event of the kind ever seen.

As soon as the dates for the performance of the pageant are positively fixed, the advertising of the event by the railroads will begin, and the regular time tables and special literature of most of the St. Louis lines will carry notices of the pageant.

The dates will probably be May 23, 24 and 25, and possibly also May 27, May 28 is Thursday, and the 30th, Saturday, is Decoration day. The Sunday evening production, May 31, probably will contain some special representation of the city's religious life, which may or may not appear in the week-day productions. The pageant will begin about 8:30 p. m.

The Regimental Organization of the Third United States Volunteer Engineers, which saw service in Cuba during the Spanish War, has decided to hold its annual reunion in St. Louis May 30, so the members may participate in the Memorial day exercises at Jefferson Barracks, and to witness the pageant. Col. David du Bose Gaillard, chief engineer of the Gulebra cut at Panama, who died recently, was commander of this regiment, and Gen. E. Spencer, Col. John A. Laird, Capt. H. Union Reber, Dr. George E. Lyon and Capt. H. C. Dudley were among its chief officers. Some of the St. Louis members are Earl M. Pikey, Luther Ely Smith, William J. Fairbank and Chester B. White.

New 5 and 10-Cent Store Opens for Business Saturday.

Under the management of J. W. Gill-ingham of New York, the new American 5 and 10-cent store will be formally opened Saturday. There will be several distinctive features about the new store, one of which embraces goods up to 25 cents. Another innovation will be a Dutch tea room that is sure to become popular. The new American store is at Sixth street and Washington avenue, and has four entrances. It was open for inspection Friday, but no goods were sold.

AUSTRIAN COUNSEL ASKS POLICE TO ASSIST 19

Three Men Present Appeal for Aid to Chief Young; Lived in Abandoned Factory.

Three tall men, with knee boots, braided coats of red and blue, and long flowing black beards, attracted attention when they appeared at police headquarters, Thursday afternoon, bearing a letter to Chief Young from "M. de Straszewski, Imperial Austro-Hungarian Consul.

The communication set forth that Johann Clorun and Adalbert Clorun, with their wives and children—the two families comprising 15 persons—were in urgent need of help. They had gone to Mexico, where the men hoped to find employment at their trade as tinsmiths, but their prospects shattered by the Mexican revolution, they came to St. Louis. Upon their arrival here they sold a fantastic story of having $300,000 in Mexican gold in money belts on their persons.

The families have been living for a month in a one-story brick building on North Market street, between Glasgow and Garrison avenues, which formerly was the factory of the Star Novelty Co. They have been without means and exposed to great hardship, according to Straszewski. The latter requested the police to provide for the families until the men are able to obtain employment.

ROMANCE CAUSES ITALY TO DEPORT AMERICAN WOMAN

Wealthy Widow, Who Toured Europe With Briton, Takes Refuge at Riviera.

CHARGED HIM WITH THEFT

Accusations Led to Her Ejection From U. S. Consulate After Police Refused to Act.

Copyright, 1914, by Press Publishing Co.

(New York World.)
ROME, Feb. 12.—Mrs. Louise Garland, a Washington has been deported from Italy as an undesirable, as a climax to a stirring romance that began in the United States.

Mrs. Garland, not yet 40, a widow of many attractions, and until recently was said to have an account with a trust company in Washington, met in America young Jack Heyne, an Englishman, formerly an army officer. He became infatuated with the fascinating widow at a dance in New York, and they toured Europe together.

Heyne began to tire of his partner, but she held to him. Matters were complicated by the fact that the young man had a protectress in America of whom Mrs. Garland was intensely jealous. Hence, when he notified her of his desire to resume the Atlantic Mrs. Garland put every obstacle in his way.

Charged Heyne With Theft.
At Naples she charged him with stealing a diamond hatpin, a present from him. He was arrested just before the steamer sailed. The next day the hatpin was found, and Heyne was released.

They traveled together to Rome and stayed at the Pension Falconetti. Her trust company suspended payment, and Mrs. Garland's remittances ceased. The authorities had been informed of Mrs. Garland's and her companion's connection with certain incidents at Avenue Carlo, and other pleasure resorts on the Riviera. Hence, when Mrs. Garland attempted other measures in Rome to detain her affiant, by charging him with stealing her luggage and railway tickets, the hostile attitude of the police compelled her to apply to the American Consul at Rome for assistance.

Rejected by Vice-Consul.
Vice-Consul Eyraud already knew something of her and had her forcibly ejected after half an hour's interview. She went to Ambassador Page to complain. The embassy personnel had been warned of her intention, however, and she was not received.

Mrs. Page and the embassy secretaries will say nothing of Mrs. Garland, but the fact remains that she gave them considerable trouble until the authorities intervened.

Now Heyne is in Naples, hiding, pending the departure of his steamer, while she was last heard of outside the Italian frontier on the Riviera.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The only Mrs. Louise Garland known here was the wife of James A. Garland, who lived until a year ago at 30 West Eighty-third street, New York. Her maiden name was Louise Tuller.

In this connection there is a Charles Tuller Garland of Morton Hill, Warwick, England. It is not known whether they are members of the same family.

POOR GET SANDWICHES CLUB CANNOT EAT

Bad Weather Dampens East St. Louis Banquet and Food Is Given to Needy.

Several hundred chicken, tongue, ham and Swiss cheese sandwiches, onion soup, celery, olives, pie and coffee, scheduled as the repast for the members of the East St. Louis Commercial Club, were discarded at the hands of less than a dozen men at the East St. Louis Thursday night.

The February meeting of the club was held in Donahue's Hall, Tenth street and Gaty avenue, but the inclement weather kept at home all but 15 of the 120 members. These made no pretense of being able to dispose of enough food to feed a small army and Sherman E. Wilson, secretary-manager of the club, decided to give it to the poor.

The delay of city officials in completing plans and specifications for the improvement of State street from Thirty-eighth street to Edmond was bitterly assailed and the lack of energy on this public improvement was likened to the free bridge controversy in St. Louis.

The improvement of Third street, from Missouri to St. Clair avenues, to relieve the traffic congestion on Collinsville avenue, was urged.

U. S. WILL TRY TO COMPEL JOHN D. TO PAY $3,000,000

Income Tax Collector Says Oil King Earns $45,000,000 a Year.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 12.—The Government is preparing to join forces with the State in the contest to wrest millions in taxes from John D. Rockefeller. While State Tax Commissioners are invoking the powers of the State, Harry Wilson of Canton, Internal Revenue Collector for this district, is laying his plans to collect about $3,000,000 from him for Government income tax.

"I have mailed an income blank to Mr. Rockefeller," said Wilson, "but I have not yet received any word from him. Just the same, I have been collecting some figures on how much money he earns each year. I have learned from reliable sources that his earnings in dividends from the Standard Oil and other corporations amounts approximately to $45,000,000 a year. He absolutely will have to pay the $3,000,000 income tax. He will pay either to me or the Revenue Collector who is over the district in which Tarrytown, N. Y., is situated. It is merely a question of legal residence."

Mrs. Rockefeller, who has been kept here some time by illness, departed yesterday for Tarrytown to join her husband. She was pale and weak as she boarded a Lake Shore train.

SPEAKERS AT G. O. P. DINNER TALK ONLY OF HARD TIMES

Schmoll Predicts Voters Will Recall Republican Party to Power; Hadley Absent.

Herbert S. Hadley, former Governor, who makes a speech now and then at a Republican gathering, just to show that he is still in the party, failed to appear at the Young Republicans' Lincoln day dinner Thursday night at the Planters Hotel. But Mayor Kiel and John Schmoll were there to cheer the faithful with "hard times" speeches.

Kiel talked about the visit which James Eads How's hobo followers propose to make to the city hall, and spoke as if he would have the diners believe there were no unemployed men in St. Louis in previous winters, under Republican national administrations. He told how the Democrats, after enacting a home rule law for St. Louis, brought about the suspension of the law because a Republican Mayor was elected.

Chairman Schmoll of the City Republican Committee warned the hearts of his hearers with the prediction that the country would never be prosperous so long as the Republican party was out of power, and that the voters would be forced to recall the Republican party as a matter of self-protection.

C. C. Rendell of Hannibal, who started to make a speech on "What We Should Do," felt faint because of the tobacco smoke which filled the room, and stopped. Then, trying to resume speaking, he fainted. He was taken outside and revived.

Former Judge Henry S. Caulfield, F. Millspaugh of Canton, A. L. Reeves of Kansas City and F. W. Mott of St. Louis were other speakers. None of them saw any hope for the country until the return of Republicans to power. Altogether, it was a very cheerful occasion.

James W. Barrett of St. Louis was chosen president of the State organization and R. H. Ennis of Kansas City was chosen as secretary and treasurer.

ULTRA-VIOLET RAYS EXPLODE POWDER TWO MILES AWAY

Apparatus on Tower Sets Off Torpedo in River Near Florence, Italy.

FLORENCE, Italy, Feb. 12.—A successful experiment of exploding torpedoes from a long distance by means of the ultra-violet rays, discovered by Giulio Ulivi, was carried out here today. Senor Ulivi has handed over his secret to the Italian Government.

Although today's experiment was secret, it became known that Admiral Pietro Fomari had placed in the River Arno two torpedoes charged with smokeless gunpowder and two others with black gunpowder.

The ultra-violet apparatus was posted on the tower of the Palazzo Capponi two miles away. When the signal was given, the apparatus was put into operation and in less than three minutes all four torpedoes exploded.

TRAIN BLOWN UP, SCORES KILLED BY REBELS IN MEXICO

Passengers Buried in Debris Burn to Death When Every Car Is Destroyed.

SEVERAL AMERICANS DIE

Outrage Near Tampico Is Reported Worst of Series; Relief Train to Scene.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—Total destruction of a National Railway train by rebels with dynamite and fire passengers, several of whom were Americans and all of the crew except the engineer and one brakeman.

The attack, made Thursday, was reported here today from Las Canoas, between San Luis Potosi and Tampico. Details received by railway officials indicate that the wrecking of the train was the worst, so far as loss of life is concerned, of any in a long series of outrages perpetrated by rebels.

When the train, which was en route from Tampico to San Luis Potosi with the cars filled with passengers and a military escort, was approaching Las Canoas, the rebels, by means of an electric battery, exploded a series of mines laid beneath the tracks.

Almost every car was shattered, burying occupants in the debris. The wreck was either ignited from the explosion or was fired by rebels who swarmed down on it from the mountains.

Most of the passengers who were in the rear cars fled to the brush and some of them succeeded in reaching nearby stations.

After the train had been destroyed by fire the rebels tore up almost a mile of track. A military train has been dispatched from Cardenas to the scene. It is reported also that the rebels have cut off the water supply of the city of Tampico and have stopped the light of the Altamira lighthouse, in order to force the Federals to come out and fight.

Two Federal Officers Executed.
A Lieutenant and a Sergeant of the Mexican Federal army were summarily shot at Tampico by order of Gen. Ignacio Morales Zaragoza, the Federal commander, after they had been convicted by court-martial of waylaying, robbing and murdering Fred Martin, a negro who was formerly a soldier in the United States Army.

Martin was on the way from Tampico, where he had drawn his pension on Jan. 28, when the crime was committed. The rebels took Chicontepec, in the northern part of Vera Cruz State, yesterday. Rebel activity throughout the State is increasing rapidly.

Attempt Made to Assassinate U. S. Lieutenant at Vera Cruz.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Feb. 12.—An attempt was made yesterday to assassinate Lieut. Arthur B. Cook, Flag Lieutenant to Rear Admiral Mayo of the United States battleship Connecticut. Lieut. Cook, although struck by a bullet, was only slightly hurt. His assailant was not seen.

The Lieutenant, accompanied by his wife and Miss Ethel McKenzie of Philadelphia, were driving to the steamer March 12, making calls at missionary stations and colleges to which her husband gave millions of dollars. She has chartered the yacht Alberta for a cruise of two months in the Mediterranean.

Mrs. Kennedy will take with her six guests, the Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Jowett; the Rev. Dr. A. Woodruff Halsey, a secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, and Mrs. Halsey; the Rev. Dr. A. P. Schaeffer, superintendent of the New York City Mission, and Mrs. Schaeffer.

One of the stops will be at Constantinople. Kennedy left $20,000 to Roberts College and $10,000 to a Bible house there. At Beirut is the Syrian Protestant College, to which Kennedy bequeathed $25,000. At Smyrna there is a school of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, to which Kennedy left $25,000.

Says His Wife Was Greatly Benefited

St. Louis Man Says Plant Juice Has Improved His Wife's Health and Endorses It.

Mr. E. W. Mayberry, who resides at 1445 Madison St. here, and who works for the Peters Shoe Co., of this city, tells of the experience his wife had with Plant Juice. Mrs. Mayberry was raised in St. Louis and has many friends who will read the following with interest:

"Some time ago I bought a bottle of Plant Juice for my wife and it certainly has been fine to her case. She has suffered a long time with malaria and liver trouble but nothing she used seemed to do her any good until she began taking your Plant Juice. She says she is feeling fine now but is going to keep on with the treatment to be sure that she is entirely cured."

Plant Juice cleanses the system of all poisons and removes all malaria. It stimulates the torpid, sluggish liver into healthy action, corrects constipation and regulates the bowels. It tones up the stomach and digestive organs and puts the whole human machinery into perfect working order. Women who suffer from extreme nervousness, low vitality, headache, pains across the back or in the limbs, feel tired and worn out, are depressed and despondent, with no energy or ambition will find in Plant Juice just the tonic and strengthener they need. ST. JOSEPH CITY TREASURER SHORT NEARLY $25,000

George H. Wyatt Resigns Following Discovery That Amounts Him.

MAYOR MADE INQUIRY

Treasurer Says He Never Was Reimbursed for Salaries Advanced to Employees.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 12.—The office of City Treasurer George H. Wyatt is in the hands of the City Comptroller today, following Wyatt's admission that he is close to $25,000 short in his accounts. Wyatt has resigned to Mayor C. A. Pfeiffer, whose inquiry caused the discovery of the shortage. Homer Osborn, deputy and bookkeeper for Wyatt, also has left the office of the Treasurer. Comptroller Shaffer is going over the books of the Treasurer today and will report to the Mayor as soon as he determines the exact amount of the shortage.

Eight Years as Treasurer.
Wyatt had served eight years in the office of Treasurer. The Mayor ordered an investigation of his regime when he was informed the Treasurer's office was carrying between $200 and $300 over the funds each day, as ordered by law.

Wyatt says he has advanced the salaries of city employees before pay day frequently, in the expectation of being reimbursed when they received their warrants. Many of them, he said, had not repaid him and others had lost their jobs or died.

He says he knew he was short and was making efforts to raise the money among friends, when a statement of conditions in his office was demanded as a result of the Mayor's investigation.

Short More Than He Thought.
Wyatt says he then examined the books and was astounded to discover that he was short many times what he had supposed.

"I am up against it," said Wyatt, when he called City Comptroller Shaffer into his office and told him he was short.

Wyatt then wrote out his resignation and sent it to Mayor Pfeiffer.

PROGRESSIVES OF NEW YORK DISCUSS T. R. FOR GOVERNOR

State Committee Debates Proposal of Nominating Colonel to Head Ticket.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Theodore Roosevelt may be nominated for Governor by the Progressives. The State Committee and a delegation of county chairmen conferred at length yesterday and the advantages and risks of such a nomination were openly discussed.

Theodore Douglas Robinson, the ex-President's nephew, presided as State chairman. Immediately after the meeting he was asked:

"Do you think that Col. Roosevelt will run for Governor this fall?" Robinson smiled and said:

"Run? Yes, he would run for anything from Constable up."

Robinson then was asked what his serious opinion was and he answered: "Frankly, I don't know," meaning that he did not know whether the Colonel will run for Governor.

There was an hour's discussion of finances, and it was apparent that the herd of Bull Moose, though feeding regularly, is perhaps not feeding bountifully. Plans were discussed for raising more money, and one man said:

"It's no use appealing to the rank and file. Fifty-six of our members have not paid their dues."

The dues are $10 a year, and there are only 175 members of the committee. It appeared, too, that the organization is in debt as a result of the last campaign.

Yet George W. Perkins was at the meeting in plain sight. He made a speech telling how promising was the outlook for the party, judging by reports of the committee. He had learned that Hiram Johnson is going to be re-elected Governor of California and Victor M. McKendrick sent back to the Senate from Kansas.

The Roosevelt boom was started by John S. Van Duser of Elmira. He spoke of the Colonel as "the gentleman in South America." He suggested that there was no need to acquint the Colonel with the party, the party could go ahead with the work of bringing about the nomination and "surprising" him with it on his return.

ENGLAND TO ADVISE HUERTA TO RESIGN

Embassy Secretary at Mexico City Gets Instructions on Visit at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Thomas R. Hohler, first secretary of the British embassy at Mexico City, is at the British embassy here, being informed as to the policy of the Washington Government in Mexico. Mr. Hohler will depart in a few days for Mexico City, where he will relieve Sir Lionel Gordon, the British Minister. The latter will leave Mexico City at once for Washington for his conference with President Wilson next week.

Mr. Arthur Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador to the United States, called at the State Department today and informed Secretary Bryan England will advise Huerta of the unalterable attitude of this Government toward his remaining at the head of affairs at Mexico City and urge that he retire.

Secretary Bryan informally asked Sir Arthur to advise Mr. Hohler to take this step and the latter has been instructed to do so by the British Foreign Office. Little hope is entertained by officials of the Washington department that this influence will have any effect.

Little Anne in the City

A Pretty Story of a Mountain Rose That Refused to Be Transplanted.

By Temple Bailey.

"THERE!" said the mother, as she rose to her feet. "It looks mighty pretty!"

"It certainly does," Anne agreed, as she surveyed herself with naive satisfaction in the inadequate mirror.

The rosy ribbon, pinned about her waist, fell in long streamers over her dark serge skirt. The effect was somewhat startling, but Anne and her mother had no doubts. They were far away from the subtleties of metropolitan fashion, and they liked plenty of color.

A coarse straw hat with a pink rose was set on Anne's sunburnt hair. Beneath it the girl's eyes looked out eagerly.

The rattle of wheels outside took them to the front door.

"Dave," said the older woman, as the mud-spattered burly stopped at the step, "you are early enough. You'll have to wait when you get to the station."

"I didn't want her to miss the train," the boy explained.

But there was another reason for his promptness. When they had left behind a half dozen tow-headed youngsters who waved at them from the front gate, and the big man who hailed from the fields—when they were beyond the sights and sounds of the farm, and had come upon the quiet of the forest road, he let his horse walk.

"Anne," he began, and stopped. Her glance met his, and she laughed nervously.

"Look here!" He hesitated. "Look here, Anne!"

"I'm lookin'," was her tremulous response.

"Look here, ain't you goin' to let me kiss you good-by?"

"Here!" The great trees bending above the road made for them a sanctuary of love. "Here!" she whispered again.

"Yes, there's so many people at the station!"

"But I ain't never let you kiss me, Dave."

"You ain't never been away before."

"I know—but I'm comin' back in a week."

"Somethin' might happen. Let me kiss you, Anne!"

He dropped the reins, and the old horse stopped. The girl away toward him, and he took her in his arms. She was only a sunburnt mountain child, but her eyes shone like stars, her cheeks were as pink as the rose, her lips were warm and sweet. To him she was altogether lovely.

On the platform he warned her: "Don't you fall in love with any of those city fellows!"

"Of course not," she laughed, conscious of her power.

"You won't!" he urged jealously. But she gave him no further satisfaction than a coquettish: "You'll see!"

"You can dress for dinner, dear, and then I'll come for you."

Anne gasped. "I-I haven't any other dress," she stammered.

"Ah!" Margaret apologized. "I never thought of that. But—I have a white gown with a short waist—I could make it fit you, I think."

So it happened that when little Anne came into the dining room that night she created something of a sensation.

Margaret had looped up the rough looks with a bit of silver ribbon, and two curls bobbed over one ear and were caught by a white rose. The silken gown swept in folds about the tiny straight figure, and hid the awkward feet, while a chiffon scarf made a red, while a chiffon scarf made a red, while a chiffon scarf made a red.

The young man who had driven home with them came forward eagerly.

"Cinderella!" he murmured, laughing into Anne's startled eyes.

"Don't tease her, Mark," Margaret protested, with a perceptible note of irritation in her voice.

"Is he your beau?" Anne asked her friend eagerly, as they sat together later, in a dim corner of the library.

"I'm not sure," Margaret said, with a catch in her voice. "We are not engaged, if you mean that."

That night, when little Anne was in bed in the pink and white room, Margaret came in.

"Tell me about Dave," she commanded.

It was a simple little tale, but it breathed of youth and love.

"And when you marry him," Margaret brooded, "you will live up there on the mountain, and take care of your babies, and wash and scrub for the rest of your days!"

"Well, that's just what mother did," was little Anne's easy philosophy, "and she's mighty happy."

"Mark wants to marry me," Margaret said slowly. "He asked me to-night, after you came up."

Little Anne sat up in bed. "Then it's all settled?"

"No, it isn't settled. I can't be sure of Mark. He knows that I have money and that father has influence, and he is an ambitious young lawyer. Oh, little Anne—he threw himself down beside the wondering child—"I am afraid it is not love he gives me!"

Next evening little Anne again wore the white gown. After dinner she sat alone on the balcony with Mark, while Margaret played for them. Below the balcony the garden was asleep under a silver moon.

"Do you like it here, little Anne?" Mark asked.

"I like it, but I miss mother and Dave," she told him.

"I'm going to marry him," "You're much too pretty to marry a country man."

He threw his cigar away and sat down on the marble coping which encircled the balcony. His change of position brought him just behind her, so that she had to turn to look up at him. He bent toward her suddenly.

"Such a waste of sweetness," he murmured, and kissed the parted lips.

She flung him from her, and stood very still and silent in the white moonlight.

"If you were up on the mountain, Dave would surely kill you for that!" she said at last, and he shrank from her primitive fierceness.

In the other room the music stopped. "Come here," Margaret called, "both of you!"

Anne went to her swiftly, like a bird flying to cover. Mark followed slowly.

When they stood beside Margaret, she talked of plans for the next day—a matinee and dinner at Bartin's or the opera and the Russian dancers?

"You needn't plan for me," little Anne said. "I'm going."

Margaret stared at her in amazement. "You promised me a week."

"I'm sorry, but I've changed my mind," little Anne insisted obstinately. "Mother needs me."

But that night she crept into Margaret's room.

"It's Dave I want," she confessed. They clung together for a moment in the darkness; then Anne whispered: "Don't you marry Mark, Margaret."

"Why not?" was the sharp demand. "Because—oh," she whispered, with a shuddering sense of the secret she must not share, "wait till somebody loves you like Dave loves me, Margaret!"

The next day Dave, driving to the rail train, found more precious freight. A soft rain fell on the mountain and made the forest road a thing of moist fragrance and misty vistas. Dave drove the old horse to the place where he had stopped on the morning of little Anne's departure. Then he let the reins drop, and held out his arms to his sweetheart. She yielded this time without resistance.

"I ain't ever goin' away from you again, Dave!" her face was hidden in his rough, wet coat. "I ain't ever goin' away again!"

The Sandman Story for Tonight.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

The Animals and the Mirror.

UNT SUSAN sent an old-fashioned looking-glass to the barn to be stored in the loft with other discarded furniture.

The farmer boy stood it on the floor of the barn until he should have time to store it away. The mirror was broad and long and had a dark wooden frame. An old duck wandered into the barn and caught sight of herself in the mirror.

"There is another duck," she said; "wonder who she is, and she walked toward the reflection. "She is rather friendly," she continued. "She is walking toward me. But what large feet she has and her feathers are very handsome. Goodness!" she said, as she bumped into the mirror, "if that duck isn't in a glass case! Why are you in there?" she asked.

"Well, you needn't answer if you don't want to," she said, walking away. "A glass case is a good place for you."

Puzzle came along next, and walked in front of the mirror, turning her head and swinging her tail. She had seen a mirror before and knew she was a handsome cat. But she saw the dog coming in the door, so she walked away, for she did not want the dog to think her vain. The dog walked over to the mirror and sniffed and then looked foolish. He had seen a mirror before, but not so often as puss.

"Thought it was another dog, didn't you," laughed puss. "Here comes the donkey; let us hide behind these barrels and see what he does."

"Well, if they haven't got another donkey!" he said. "I suppose I should speak first, as I have lived here so long. He is coming to meet me. Well, that is friendly," he said.

Bump! his nose hit the glass.

"Well, if I don't give up," he said, "you are in a glass case. You are a homely creature," he remarked, after waiting for the other donkey to speak.

For Chapped, Blotchy, Red or Wrinkled Skin

(From Family Physician.)

Do you realize that just beneath that coarse, rough or discolored complexion there is an exquisitely beautiful skin of youthful tint and delicacy? If you could only bring this complexion to the surface, discarding the old one! You can—in the easiest, simplest, most natural manner imaginable. Just get an ounce of ordinary macerated wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, removing it mornings with warm water. The wax assists Nature by gradually taking off the lingering particles of dead and half-dead surface skin, causing no discomfort whatever. Ordinarily it takes from a week to ten days to complete the transformation. Cutaneous defects like chaps, pimples, blotches, liver spots, moth patches, freckles, of course, disappear with the old skin. Nothing else than the know of it will accomplish such wonderful results in so short a time.

Fine lines and even the deeper wrinkles often appear at this season. In such cases nothing is better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered macerated wax in 4 pt. milk. This is remarkably effective.—ADV.

"And your ears are not so long as mine," and he walked off with a disgruntled air.

The cat rolled over and over, and the dog buried his head in his paws.

"Did you ever see anything so funny?" he said to puss.

"Here comes the goat," said the cat. "Hide quick!"

Billy came clattering over the boards, when suddenly he saw the other goat. He looked at him a minute. "I'll show him," he said, running at the mirror with head down.

Bang! smash! crash! and Billy jumped back, the most astonished goat you ever saw.

"Now you have done it," said the horse, who had been watching all the time from his stall. "All the animals will get out now and run away."

CITY CHARTER TO HAVE BUREAU FOR CHRONIC KICKERS

Provision of Complaint Commission, Say Freeholders, to Fill Long Felt Want.

A long-felt want will be filled by the Complaint Commission to be created by the new city charter. In the opinion of the members of the Board of Freeholders, the commission is to comprise three members, who shall serve without pay.

The freeholders take the view that the Complaint Commission will serve a double purpose. It will enable citizens, who have just grounds against city officials or public service corporations to appear before the commission and file their complaints. It will also afford the professional kickers an opportunity to let off steam at least twice a month, as the board will be required to meet that often.

In case there should be a reluctance on the part of the kickers to appear before the board and make complaints, that body will have the power to subpoena them and compel them to testify. It will be the duty of the Complaint Commission to study all complaints filed and recommend to State or city authorities the proper remedy for the correction of the evils complained of.

The Complaint Commission will be a division of the Department of Public Welfare.

Salary of Department Directors $8000.
A committee composed of Louis P. Aloe, Edward Flad, F. N. Judson, Samuel Rosenfeld, Selden P. Spencer, Clinton E. Udell, Judge Henry S. Caulfield and Secretary Wilbur E. Jones filed with the board Thursday night a draft of articles defining the scope and duties of the administrative departments of the city.

Under the proposed plan, which has not yet been discussed and adopted by the entire board, the Board of Public Improvements will be comprised of a department of engineering and construction, in charge of a director; a department of streets and sewers, in charge of a director, and a department of public utilities, in charge of a director, who shall also be president of the board. The directors of departments will be appointed by the Mayor, and will receive salaries of $8000 each.

The three members of the Board of Public Improvements, with the Directors of Public Welfare and Public Safety, shall constitute a city plan commission to suggest the State and municipal legislation necessary to carry out the recommendations of the commission with respect to development, improvement and beautification of the city.

Under the Department of Welfare, there will be divisions of health, hospitals and dispensaries, institutions, parks and public places, recreation, charities and corrections, research and publicity, legal aid, municipal lodging houses, employment, complaint, Mul-lanphy Board, parole and probation and board of children's guardians.

Divisions of Public Safety.
Under the Department of Public Safety there will be divisions of police, of fire and fire prevention, weights and measures, building and inspection and street lighting. These departments will be under control of directors appointed by the Mayor. The head of each division under the different departments will be styled the commissioner of that particular division to which he is appointed. The commissioners will be appointed by the director, and will not be subject to the Efficiency Commission provisions of the new charter.

Charter to Be Readily Comprehended.
Nearly every article of the proposed charter has been put into printed form, but several of the articles have not been discussed, revised and approved. A committee composed of Freeholders Langeman, Udell, Rose, Rosenfeld and Spencer was appointed by Chairman McDonald to draft the miscellaneous provisions of the charter.

Within a few weeks the freeholders expect to have the entire charter in pamphlet form, and they will then go through it, edit it and revise it.

The Freeholders are attempting to condense the charter as much as possible. All unnecessary and meaningless words are stricken from the different sections by the entire board. Phrases are simplified, so that they will be clear, concise and easily understood.

Flowers Leading as Valentine Gifts.
Your valentine remembrances will be best expressed in flowers. The florists are abundantly supplied with an unusual quantity of spring flowers, and these, it is thought, will be the most favored tokens this year.

The prices of flowers are approximately the same as last season. The severity or mildness of the weather has little or no effect. It is sunshine that counts. When most of the winter days are dark, flowers become scarce, and, consequently, the prices soar.

Bunches of violets, the ideal valentine gift, are selling at 50 to 75 cents. The same price is asked for sweet peas.

The popular gift is a heart-shaped box of violets or spring flowers. The design portrays Cupid, his bows and arrows and other symbols of the little god's artifice.

A unique innovation is to send a corsage bouquet in the valentine box. This is the only day of all the year that the heart-shaped box is used.

A pretty decorated basket, filled with a variety of spring flowers, is appropriate.

Are Our Schools Wrong?

A thundering affirmative answer has come from the parents, teachers, educators and business men of the country. But the time for muck-raking our public school system is passed. The question now is, what are we going to do? ELLA FRANCES LYNCH is ready to tell us what we should do—how we should approach this tremendous task of rebuilding our school system. She has the vision, the patience and the experience. In a series of four constructive articles, the first of which appears in the March PICTORIAL REVIEW, Miss Lynch has a message for every parent, teacher and educator in the United States.

$500 for a Letter

Realizing the bigness of the subject, the publishers of PICTORIAL REVIEW invite expression of opinion from parents, educators and particularly the 600,000 public school teachers who, as much as the pupils, are the victims of an outworn and inefficient system of education. For the letter containing the best constructive criticism of Miss Lynch's series of articles the Publishers will pay a Cash Prize of $500. The names of these three distinguished judges in this contest will be published in PICTORIAL REVIEW for May, which will be on sale April 15th.

COAL RATE CASE IS ARGUED BEFORE COMMERCE BODY

Lawyers for Railroads Contend
Proposed Increase to St.
Louis Is Just.

ARBITRARY IS DEFENDED
Terminal Counsel Opposes
Abolishment of Charge as Demanded by Post-Dispatch.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Arguments of the coal rate case were heard by the Interstate Commerce Commission today. The case, which was brought by the Post-Dispatch, is the first of its kind to be heard by the commission. The Post-Dispatch, through its legal counsel, contended that the proposed increase in the coal rate was arbitrary and that the terminal charge should be abolished. The railroad lawyers, on the other hand, defended the proposed increase, claiming that it was necessary to cover the cost of the coal and the terminal charge.

Unloading Facilities Primitive.

That seems very strange, commented Commissioner Clements. "How do you account for it?"

The unloading facilities at St. Louis are very primitive, replied Fletcher. He stated that the average revenue per ton per mile in the coal-carrying trade was low and that while the haul from Belleville, Ill., was only 11 miles to St. Louis, the railroad companies made their payments on a basis of 100 miles.

He said the city of St. Louis wants to pay the railroads for this expense only $1.40 per ton per mile.

H. M. Northcutt, representing the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, stated that at no time since 1906 has there been anything bearing on the financial condition of the roads which justified an increase in the coal rate to St. Louis, but that everything tended to show the rates should be increased.

He maintained that the revenues to the railroads for hauling coal to St. Louis under the present rates was but 23 cents per car, while under the proposed increase of 25 cents a ton, the roads would receive a revenue of $2 a car.

He stated that there was nothing to back up the demand that the rate on coal to St. Louis should be only 11 miles to the rate to East St. Louis. He said additional service was performed in getting the coal from East St. Louis to St. Louis and that payment should be made for such service.

Abolishment of Arbitrary Demanded.

The proceeding has several angles. The railroads filed with the commission a tariff increasing the rate on coal from 25 cents to 50 cents. This was suspended by the commission pending an investigation. The Post-Dispatch, through its attorneys, Edward C. Crow and Sidney P. Andrews, filed a petition asking that the arbitrary bridge charge of 20 cents a ton on coal be abolished, making the rate to St. Louis the same as the rate to East St. Louis.

The city of St. Louis, joined with the Post-Dispatch, while East St. Louis is seeking to maintain the discrimination in favor of itself. The coal operators' petition contended that the present rate is remunerative, but that instead of being increased, it should be reduced.

Evidence taken in St. Louis showed that the railroads absorb the bridge charge on coal and merchandise brought a greater distance than 300 miles, and that it receives a less amount per ton per mile on the long-distance business than it receives from the short-distance business. The evidence also showed that while on much of the coal handled to East St. Louis the railroad receives only 22 cents per ton, they demand 32 cents to St. Louis, and the Terminal Association an additional 20 cents.

Pierce Opposes Equal Rate Plan.

In opening his argument, Thomas M. Pierce, general counsel for the Terminal Railroad Association, presented the two propositions before the commission, and selected to defend the rate to the second one, which he said was: "Shall the rates on coal from the mines in Illinois to St. Louis be the same as the rates to East St. Louis?"

The first proposition, which dealt with the increase in the coal rate to St. Louis, was left to the coal-carrying roads to argue. The Post-Dispatch, on the other hand, presented before the commission its counsel seeking to justify the advance of 25 cents per ton from the rate to East St. Louis.

The Terminal counsel declared with emphasis that the second proposition was vital to the association because, if the rate on coal from the mines to St. Louis must be the same as to East St. Louis, the effect would be that, while the charge for hauling coal to East St. Louis would not, the service would not, as the Terminal would be required to transport coal from the Illinois city to St. Louis without being paid anything for its service.

CHILD BARRED IN MAIL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—G. W. Merrill, postmaster at Stratford, Ok., wrote the postmaster-General Bureau the following:

"J. B. Denton of this place asks if he can have a child 5½ years old sent by parcel post from Twin Falls, Idaho, to his place. Finding nothing in the post-post regulations covering such a case, I am referring him to the department."

The Postmaster-General replied, saying the only living creatures that may be handled by parcel post in the future are bees.

Several weeks ago a child was sent from Oklahoma to an Eastern city by parcel post.

The Jarr Family

WHEN ladies fair a shopping go they seldom hunt bargains in pairs or trios. Of course they'll scout around the shops in family flying squadrons together, but when a woman goes to buy she prefers to buy alone.

When a woman goes forth to the great shops to BUY she does not want her husband to know where she got her bargains or what she paid for them. Women's inhumanity to woman in this regard is something fierce, boys!

But the two Misses Cackleberry were visiting Mrs. Jarr from Philadelphia, and as she hoped and expected they would go home soon, Mrs. Jarr did not much care if they shared with her the sweets of getting something for nothing - the bargains at the advertised marked-down sale of taffetas promptly at 10 a. m.

But, as she said to Mr. Jarr, "I don't see why it is we only have visitors who stay and stay and stay till they wear out their welcome and from places where I do not care much to go to return the visit. I don't want to go to Philadelphia. But why can't we have some nice people of means visit us from San Francisco, so when the Panama Exposition opens we could go out there and visit them for a month at least?"

Mr. Jarr could not answer this.

"And," Mrs. Jarr went on, "why can't you have relatives who have beautiful cottages at the seaside or bungalows in the Maine woods, so I could visit them in the summer and autumn and take the children? But no, our visiting friends are the Cackleberry girls of Philadelphia and your relatives on an abandoned farm!"

"But it isn't an abandoned farm," interposed Mr. Jarr.

"Well, it should be!" snapped Mrs. Jarr. "Whenever I think of your Uncle Henry and Aunt Hetty of Hay Corners and your Cousin Emily from Paw Paw, I shiver!"

Mr. Jarr was about to advise her not to think of them and add that they were Mrs. Jarr's relatives and not his, but he thought he had better say nothing.

"Well, goodbye!" said Mrs. Jarr, giving him a shopping get-away or pecking variety of kiss. "Those Cackleberry girls will expect me to buy their lunch, I suppose. Have you any money?"

Mr. Jarr had no money, of course, and Mrs. Jarr remarked with a sigh, that she supposed she'd have to pay everything out of her own pocket, and joining the two Miss Cackleberrys, who were fighting in their room over who had grabbed off the best or the jewelry they owned and fought over in common the bargain hunters departed.

Both the Miss Cackleberrys insisted on paying the carfare. Furthermore, Gladys Cackleberry got a dime and a nickel in the conductor's hand, first. Mrs. Jarr shut her handbag with a vicious snap. She knew it was up to her to finance the expedition the rest of the day.

"It must be grand to have a charge account!" sighed Miss Irene Cackleberry as they entered the portals of the great store just as the liveried porter assisted two stout and elaborately attired ladies to alight from a great limousine.

"Yes," added her sister. "Think of being able to go in a store and have the floorwalker lead you to the counter and say, 'Wait on the Miss Cackleberrys first, Miss Snyder, please!' And then see the saleswoman turn from the cash and C.O.D. customers and wait on you."

Mysterious.

TWO darkies bought a piece of pork, and Sam, having no place to put his share, trusted it to Henry's keeping. They met the next night, and Henry said:

"A most strange thing done happen at ma house las' night, and Henry said:

"What dat, Henry?"

"Well, Sam," explained Henry solemnly, "dis mammin' I go down in de cellar for to git a piece of hawg fo' breakfast, an' I put my han' down in de brine an' feels 'round, but dey ain't no pork dar; all gone, so I turn up de bar'l, an', Sam, sho' as preachin', de rats had done et a hole clear froo de bottom of dat bar'l an' dragged de meat all out!"

Sam was petrified with astonishment for a moment, and then said: "Why didn't ye brine run outen de bar'l?"

"Well, you see, Sam," replied Henry, "dat's de myst'ry."—The Argonaut.

Showing How—Forgetful Is Love

TWO hearts that beat as one and didn't give a tinker's what-you-may-call-it for all else, found their way up the front steps of the city hall. Dragging Her with his left arm, he went about trying the doors, using his right with dexterity. The front doors were locked.

"We'll try the side doors," said he, soothingly. "I've lived here 18 years, and I guess I know the city hall."

The side doors were also locked.

"I wonder if the Mayor or someone is dead," said he. "You see, we haven't read the papers in several days."

They looked at the flag staff. There was nothing there to indicate a public calamity.

"Let's go into the police station here and ask the cops," suggested He.

"Don't!" shuddered She. "I just detest police stations."

So they sat on the steps and waited. It was 9 a. m. At 1 p. m. they were still there. A policeman approached.

"What are you two doing—think you're at Creve Coeur Lake?" he asked.

"We're waiting for a marriage license, but the city hall hasn't opened yet," explained He.

The policeman told them it was Sunday and that the bureau was closed. They disappeared, crestfallen in the direction of Olive street, leaving a trail of laughter behind them.

"Love locked," said the policeman.
